About Richard Parsons

My Internet adventure began in January 1999 when I registered firstalpha.co.uk as an online destination for my business.

I had registered traderlogic.com in October 1998 to service my passion for the monitoring of financial market instruments but this was not a commercial proposition.

I quickly became excited at the opportunity presented by the global 'uniqueness' of the domain naming system and it was not long before I had collected a small portfolio of Domain Names.

Every item of published information on the Internet will be identified by its URL, a significant part of which is the domain name.

In April 2006, my business affiliated with Wild West Domains, Inc. Naming Creatively\(tm\) provides for the registration of domain names, Website hosting and the delivery of online security.

This was also the month when the European Registry began accepting open domain name registrations, following the period set aside to give priority to trademark holders.

Soon after the first few domain names were registered in 1985, a means of securing data transmission was devised. One aspect of this is known as 'SSL' or Secure Socket Layer. My website here is secured with a Thawte SSL Certificate.

What to expect here!

If this is your first visit to a4m.eu, you may experience a warning message. Some web browsers may report an error while others will not. This is because of the way in which the intermediate server certificate is verified by different web browsers. A 'certificate not trusted' error message can be tested by using the SSL Checker at SSLshopper.com.

My business aim is to help fellow Internet Enthusiasts achieve a real and lasting benefit from the investment of their time in online business activities. I will achieve MY objective by building the largest, most responsive network which it is possible to imagine through LOVE, MUTUAL TRUST and UNDERSTANDING.

Our futures begin with a single step. Personal development results from the leaders and followers with whom one chooses to associate. I have linked Brand-Aware.co.uk to the website of a group of people who I have found to be particularly supportive.

My principal business is Web Development, Affiliate Integration and Social Media Marketing and I want to build business relationships with those to whom I can easily relate. Getting to know somebody online gets easier every day through the evolving social media revolution and technological advancements.
